

This country is already close to a media monopoly. The FCC needs to rescind the Telecommunications Act of 1996, not further abdicate its responsibility to the owners of the airwaves, the American public. We need more voices and viewpoints on the airwaves, including Presidential debates, not fewer. Where are the public hearings? No vote without hearing from your boss, the American public.